Fall Gardening

It requires both unceasing and intelligent effort to make a complete success of fall gardening nowadays. Uncertainty of the weather, various injurious insects and diseases all are to be met and contended with and to an extent that was not experienced even a few years back.

As never before the gardener that would meet with any degree of success now must be prepared with due insecticide and fungicide with which to fight insect and disease the very moment their are signs of either. He must anticipate the dry spells that are almost sure to occur sometime between the first of July and the first of November and so far as he can guard against ill consequences by, first a thorough preparation of the soil before planting and, second providing just the proper implement of cultivation for such a period of dry weather. There must be a clean, well-fined seed bed to receive the seeds or plant but afterwards everything in the way of cultivation must be of the shallowest kind. The soil needs to be in a firmer, more compact condition at this season of scorching sun than it needs to be in the early part of the year, when the soil is naturally cooler and the rains, to settle it, more regular. A certain firmness of sandy, light soil is as much essential to good growth as a certain looseness is essential for stiff, clayey soil. In midsummer too much looseness of soil is a thing to be guarded against.

For this season and for such soil a roller is almost indispensable to secure successful results. The surface soil needs to be firmed and then firmed, as it were. In the spring heavy rains tend to produce this effect of firming or compacting the soil, but this means cannot be relied on after summer has set in.

Either a roller must be used or the work of firming must be left undone. In the case of crops whereof the seeds are dropped in hills—corn, peas, beans, melons, Irish potatoes—a certain degree of firming is secured by treading in the seeds with the foot (a pair of old fashioned, broad-soled brogans comes in just right here). Limited as this firming is it is very helpful indeed in securing the germination of the seeds, whatever the plant.

There are many plants that it would be a mere waste of their seeds and labor thrown away to sow them so long as the mean daily temperature was anywhere near 75 or 80. Such crops as onions, spinach, safford, lettuce, English peas, beans and some others, find it very congenial temperature for germination and growth in February and March, but consigned to the soil under a July or August sun would do little more than germinate the young sprout and die. A hot soil and an air temperature of 80 or 90 is fatal to the tender plant just from the seed. Oftener than not the young plant will not even show itself above the surface.

Fall gardening may have its beginning in the planting of such crops as turnips, cabbage, tomatoes, beans, Irish potatoes in the course of the ensuing 80 days, but others than the planting of these the main concern should be in getting the soil in good shape by plowing and manuring for those crops that are more properly started later on when the soil has cooled and the air temperature declined to something like or less than 60 degrees mean daily.

For fall growth of vegetables everything depends upon well prepared soil that is rich from the presence of plant food provided by thoroughly decomposed matter as in the case of soil naturally rich. Ray, undecomposed manure is altogether unsuited for any summer or fall started crops. Such can be safely used only as a top dressing carefully applied.

ORPHANS' HOME IN NEED OF FUNDS

Macon, Ga., July 1.—Owing to the illness of Rev. W. E. Mumford founder of the Georgia Industrial Orphan's Home, it is feared that the institution may suffer some embarrassment, as Dr. Mumford has been carrying on this work by his own personal efforts. It is understood that the home, which cares for over one hundred and fifty orphan children, is in need of funds.

Several churches have declared their intention of taking up special subscriptions to secure the necessary amount to carry on the work while Dr. Mumford is ill in the hospital, and it is thought that other churches and institutions will make some assistance in this worthy work.—Atlanta Journal.

WEAK HEARTS

Are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, the stomach expands—swells, and puffs up against the heart. This crowds the heart and shortens the breath. Rapid heart beats and heart disease is the final result. Kodole Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, takes the strain off the heart, cures indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Sold by H. Ellis.

A Grand Picnic.

A number of young folks from Bulloch and Tattnall met at the Kennedy bridge, on the Ogeechee river, last Tuesday, June 28, and spent the day picnicking. It was one of the most enjoyable events in the history of picnics. The people of Bulloch never do things by halves, and when the hour arrived for dinner they did not fail to respond with laden baskets and spread a dinner with the most tempting of viands, consisting of all kinds of meats, salads, pies, breads, cakes, custards and many other good things too numerous to mention. Cold lemonade flowed in abundance, and after dinner ice cream was served by Miss Alma Kennedy.

The afternoon was spent in bathing, fishing and huckleberry picking. After all had enjoyed themselves with the afternoon amusements they were called together at 4:30 and supper was served by Misses Bessie Franklin and Ida Powell.

Among those present were: Miss Bessie Franklin and Ben Franklin, Miss Ida Powell and William Wallace, of Exeter; Miss Alma, Claude and George Kennedy, of Adahelle; Misses Ruth Proctor and Nellie Averitt, of Statesboro; Miss Edna Brown, of Macon; Lavasser and Ulysses Williams, of Collins; Henry Beddingfield and Frank Whidton, of Daisy.

Tuesday June 28, 1904 will long be remembered by the band of picnickers as one of the brightest and most enjoyable events in the history of their lives.

THE STATESBORO NEWS

(INCORPORATED)
Statesboro, Ga. July 5, 1904.
Published Tuesdays and Fridays by THE STATESBORO NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at Statesboro Ga. Post Office as second class mail matter.

We are anxious to see a platform made by men who think they can improve on that of 1900.

There will be enough sensible men in the national democratic convention to keep down the Cleveland lunatics.

The legislature will probably pass the Australian ballot bill.
It is badly needed in cities like Savannah and Augusta.

The new county movement went through the legislature like a flash, and there may be eight new counties made in the state. The measure will have to be ratified by the people in October.

Col. Dixon, of Savannah, who is one of our delegates to the convention is howling for Cleveland.
Now the Colonel ought to represent the people of the district and not himself.

The national democratic convention meets to-morrow in St.
Louis to nominate candidates for president and vice president. It is very likely that Judge Parker of New York will be nominated, and it is probable that he would be an acceptable one to most of the party. Some of the old Cleveland crowd are in the convention, but the sensible men are in control, and the sage of Buzard's roost will hardly be forced on an unwilling people.

The Farm Boy.

No boy need ever regret that he was born in the country and reared on a farm, says an exchange.
He may lack the keenness and polish of his city cousin. He may be embarrassed by his own awkwardness, and feel that he is at a hopeless disadvantage in the race, but the country boy has a wider range of practical ideas. From the very first his little services are in demand. He becomes at once a part of the force that is making for home comfort and prosperity, and feels the independence of one who is helping to support himself and add to the general store. The farm boy is likely to regard his life as one of drudgery, and such it may be, if he loses interest in his surroundings or is pressed with a continual round of duty. There is something heroic in the country boy's struggle with the elements. Rain, snow and sleet only brace his courage. The garnering of the crops, the housing and feeding of the domestic animals, the gathering and preparation of the winter fuel give a purpose and rest to his toil. Then there is the long tramp, sometimes of miles, to the district school, lessons learned before and after long hours of labor.
Is it any wonder there are keen wits developing all outside of graded systems and in defiance of pedagogical order? It is the intensity of purpose with which the mind acts under the influence of vigorous health and the consciousness of the value of time that accounts for these results. So from the farm is being supplied a stream of active work-ers, men not afraid to do their duty, and bubbling over with energy and ambition. Touch the country-bred boy, now the merchant prince or the successful professional man, and how responsive he becomes to every suggestion of moral life!
The same cannot be said of boys reared in the midst of other surroundings. It is the contact with nature that makes the indelible impression upon his life. No greater gain can come to the country at large than that which comes from the promotion of the love and appreciation of rural life.
Health, happiness, purity, and peace are the natural inheritance of those who dwell surrounded by fresh air, beautiful scenes, bright skies, and pure social influence.

War On The Weevil.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard!" exhorted Solomon; and the United States government has taken his advice literally, cast off its sluggishness, and gone to the ant for assistance in the war against the boll weevil. Dr. F. O. Cook, one of Secretary Wilson's busy young men, is even now moving upon Texas with the first division of an army of Guatemalan ants, designed for service against the cotton plant's relentless enemies.
The ants of Guatemala are said to hate the boll weevil worse than a Moslem hates a Greek Christian.

Dr. Cook is bringing thirty-nine colonies of these insectivorous an-tles of Uncle Sam with him, and the attempt at colonization will be made at Victoria, Texas. Needless to say the results of the experiment will be awaited with the greatest of anxious interest throughout the country in general and the south in particular. The weevil pest has spread with such an alarming rapidity that something must be done, and that quickly. The protection of the cotton crop is of more real importance to many millions in America than half a dozen political campaigns could be, and it is well that the powers that be are awakened to a full realization of the fact.

In the meantime, and while the federal government is active, it is necessary that the various states directly affected or threatened should do all in their power to supplement the efforts of Sec'y.
Wilson and his scientists. It is not a question as to whether the state can afford to spend money in the work. It has become a condition which makes it imperative that they do spend money.

If the bill introduced in the state legislature at the present session becomes a law the Georgia department of entomology will receive an increased appropriation of $5,000 this year for the purpose of fighting the weevils. The bill should go through without opposition. The weevil must not be allowed to get the bulge on the Georgia crop. Atlanta Journal.

NEGRO SHOT TO DEATH BY MOB

Cartersville, Ga., July 1.—Jno.
Jones, a negro who assaulted Mrs.
Oscar Banister, at her home at Forty-One mile post, one mile from Alatoona, was shot to death near the scene of his crime at 6 o'clock this afternoon.

It was the purpose of the mob which had the negro in charge to burn him at the stake, but at the last moment, after the arrangements were made, it was decided to make short work.

The negro in charge of the shorliff and other officers was carried before Mrs. Banister today.
She positively identified him as her assailant. He was then returned to the jail at Cartersville.
As soon as the officers released him he was taken in charge by the mob and hurried away.

The crime for which the negro paid his life was committed Thursday a week ago. He entered the room of Mrs. Banister while her husband was absent from home.

Mrs. Banister is a young married woman and has several small children. The crime of which she was the victim greatly incensed the people of this community and there was general rejoicing when the news was known that the negro had been killed.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Cobain of Colusa, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and it's the best medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Jug as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by W. H. Ellis druggist.

Adapting Corn Varieties.—We are always learning something new about the corn plant. One thing, new at least to a good many students of the corn plant, is that corn varieties differ so greatly in their characteristics that success or failure with corn depends on the selection of the right varieties for certain fields.
It is not unusual to hear of a man declaring that the variety of corn he grows is one of the most profitable in the world, and will give most astonishing yields. The fact is that he is growing it on a location that is admirably suited to it. We are now coming to have varieties of corn adapted to uplands and to lowlands. The lowland variety may do very well on the upland while the variety adapted to the upland yields well even in bad seasons. At the present time this differentiation is only beginning to be made. During this summer corn growers would do well to watch the behavior of corn on lowlands and uplands.
At the present time we have only very meager data by which to figure out what kind of corn a man should select for the bottom lands and what kind for the uplands.

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continually," writes F. A. Galloway, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at W. H.
Ellis' drug store."

Fattening Cattle in The South.

Any man that travels through the South, especially if he is acquainted with the great stockraising districts of the West and Northwest, will be struck by the fame of the beef cattle he sees on Southern meadows, says the Farmer's Review. Here and there a family cow is to be seen, but, for the most part, the beef animal is wanting. Yet the south needs live stock, and on account of the mildness of the climate, live stock should be easily and cheaply raised.
This is the view taken of the matter by some of the leading agriculturists of the South. As a demonstration of the ability of the Southern states to fatten and market cattle of high quality the Louisiana state undertook the growing of sixteen Angus calves which they purchased in November, 1901, in Illinois and immunized against the Texas fever.
The calves were then taken to Louisiana and fed largely on by-products from the three great staples of that state, cotton seed oil, rice bran and molasses. The last winter the sixteen steers were sold in the Chicago market at the top price for the week. The journey to Chicago required six days from Baton Rouge, and some severe weather was encountered during the trip. As the animals took the highest price for the week, the natural inference is that as good beef can be made on the by-products of Louisiana crops as on the corn of the corn belt; and the by-products of Louisiana are cheap in price, and labor is also cheap there. At Baton Rouge the heaves were grazed on the pastures during the spring and fall, feed of the materials we have mentioned.
This test was of calves born above the quarantine line, to demonstrate that it pays to raise heaves in Louisiana as well as to feed

Very Remarkable Cure For Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs.
Alice Miller, of Morgan Texas. "I got temporary relief, but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' prescriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Rosque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by All Druggists.

Cholera Infantum.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject.
It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by All Druggists.

Wood's Seeds.

Crimson Clover
Sown at the last working of the Corn or Cotton Crop, can be plowed under the following April or May in time to plant corn or other crops the same season. Crimson Clover prevents winter leaching of the soil, is equal in fertilizing value to a good application of stable manure and will wonderfully increase the yield and quality of corn or other crops which follow it. It also makes splendid winter and spring grazing, fine early green feed, or a good hay crop. Even if the crop is cut off, the action of the roots and stubble improve the land to a marked degree.

DUEL IS FOUGHT OVER CABBAGES.

As a result of a duel to the death between father-in-law and daughter-in-law, in which Stephen Renfro, 70 years of age, yesterday killed the wife of his only son over a dispute about a few cabbages at their home about 8 miles from Fayetteville, Ga., the old man, pained, his beard and hair white with the snows of many winters, today sits a prisoner in the Fulton county jail, brought here by Sheriff Albert Sams to avoid a lynching.

With the suspicion of tears in his pale blue eyes, and puffing incessantly at an old cob pipe, which has evidently served for years, the old man this morning recounted, in calm tones and good English, how he yesterday met his daughter-in-law in the cabbage patch; how she threatened to kill him, and in an effort to execute her threat fired point blank at him; how he stepped to an arm basket in which he has carried a pistol for thirty odd years; how she tried to reload her gun; how he raised his pistol and fired twice in succession.

"THEY TELL ME SHE IS DEAD"
"Then she sank to the ground, and they tell me she ended his story."

"I am sorry she is dead; when it happened I thought she might as well die as me. I am old, and am almost dead, but I didn't want to be killed right there in my own field."

And he gave a hitch to his old slouch hat which was already pulled low over his almost sightless eyes. "Clouds of smoke from the old cob pipe curled around his head. Other prisoners drew near and listened in wonder to this tale of death related by an old man who had spent more than the allotted three score years and ten in quietude and peace in the pursuits of agriculture and profession of country lawyer."

"My son is my only boy and I hated to kill his wife, but it looked like I had to kill her or she me, so I fired."

The flowing snow white beard covered a breast racked with suffering; the curling white hair covered a neck within the shadow of the nose of a rope. The old man betrayed that he realized these things when he said:

"Go and tell Rufus Dorsey that I am in trouble and want to see him. Say to him that I am in very serious trouble and he must come."

"He is the best lawyer in the south and is my county man. I need him."

Judge Dorsey, of the firm of Dorsey, Brewster & Howell, was advised of the old man's desire to see him and said he would go to the jail and have a talk with him.

Mr. Renfro is confined on the fifth floor of the jail. He is not locked in a cell, but was seated this morning on a box in the kitchen. He did not hesitate to talk of the tragedy which has blighted the last years of his life.

He also told in calm tones of the flight of himself and sheriff from his native county to avoid the wrath of the people who have known him for years.

"My son and I have lived together for a time this year, but decided to separate. As a rule I plant a fine garden, but since my son had planted a number of collards, cabbages, tomatoes, and the like, I decided that it would be enough for both."

"After we separated we both used the garden. I decided that since I owned the land I was at least entitled to half if not all of the crop. My son lives about 800 yards from my house and each of us visited the garden to gather vegetables."

"Yesterday morning early my daughter-in-law and I met in the garden and she told me that I should not have the vegetables. I told her that the law entitled me to half of them. She cursed me and talked in frightful manner. "We then separated. Later I returned to the garden and began to cut some of the cabbages. I heard some one talking and recognized the voice of my daughter-in-law. When I looked up she was approaching me with a gun pointed in my direction."

"I, of course, began to tell her to put down the gun. She swore she was going to kill me. I did not believe her, and told her if she fired I would have to protect myself. She then fired point blank at my head. The load went past my right ear like the discharge of a cannon. She immediately began to reload her gun, which is one of the kind that shoots cartridges."

"I had a little basket sitting near in which I have carried a pistol for the last thirty odd years. When I saw she intended to kill me I stepped to the basket and got my pistol. She raised her gun and I fired twice in rapid succession."

"She fell to the ground and they tell me she was killed. I went on back home, where I stayed until some one went to Fayetteville and notified Albert Sams, our sheriff. He came over to my house about 4 o'clock and I went with him to Fayetteville."

"We were scouting around Fayetteville that night trying to get some supper when some one told me that the young fellows in the town were going to lynch me. I wasn't afraid of being lynched, for I knew I would get some of them while they were about it. Of course they would have killed me in the end, for I couldn't whip a regiment."

"The sheriff said he was anxious to avoid trouble, and suggested to me that we come to Atlanta. I am opposed to mob law except in extreme cases, and to prevent any lawlessness I agreed to come on up here with him. We drove 9 miles across to the country to Jamesboro, but got there just in time to miss the train. We went to bed and caught an early train this morning and arrived here at 7 o'clock. That is about all there is to it."

Mr. Renfro says his daughter-in-law was 37 years old and was the mother of seven children. His son is named Rossie Renfro and is his only boy. He has one daughter. Mr. Renfro practiced law in Fayetteville for a number of years. He is a confederate veteran and saw service all through the war. He says he is confident a jury will acquit him, as it was a case of his being killed or for him to kill his daughter-in-law. Sheriff Sams, immediately after delivering his prisoner to Sailer Fain and taking a receipt for him, returned to Fayetteville. Atlanta News.

Mill Creek Swamp Burned Out

On Tuesday somebody with an eye to mischief and rascality set fire to the grass in the swamp in Dr. Holland's pasture, near Mill Creek, and owing to the extreme dry weather considerable trouble was experienced in getting the fire under control.

At one time it was feared that the country bridge at the Olliff Ford was in danger, and Judge Moore was compelled to send out to have it protected. After burning two or three days in the swamp, crossing the stream several times, the fire was finally placed under control.

It is thought that the origin of the fire was of an incendiary nature.

OLD SOLDIERS RE-UNION

Will Be Held At Statesboro, On August 4th.

The Confederate veterans of Bulloch county met at Statesboro on last Monday and appointed a committee of citizens of Statesboro to decide if there should be a re-union held this year, and the committee of arrangements have decided to have it on Thursday, August 4th at Statesboro. The committee have decided that it will be best to have the people to bring provisions, and the town and country will both bring well filled baskets. The right to sell lemonade on the grounds will be let out to help pay the expenses of fixing the grounds and hiring a brass band for the occasion. Everybody and their kin folks are invited to come on that day. Prominent speakers will be on hand.

An Aged Lady Passes Away.

On Sunday night, at the home of her son, Mr. M. S. Rushing, near this place, Mrs. Jane Rushing passed away. The deceased was in her 80th year at the time of her death, and was perhaps the oldest woman in the county.

She was the mother of Messrs. J. B. and M. S. Rushing. The remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at Middlebrook Baptist church on Monday.

Barn Burned.

On last Saturday night the barn on Col. Julian Anderson's farm was consumed by fire. The farm was run by Mr. John Anderson, and the family and neighbors were gathered on the rear portion of the dwelling freezing a chunk of ice cream; when the blaze was noticed in the middle of a pile of oats.
The loss was several hundred dollars.

Supt. Grimshaw Canceled.

On last Friday afternoon, when Supt. H. B. Grimshaw came in on the S. & S. train from Savannah, he was notified that he was wanted at the office of President Gabbett. When he entered he found there congregated all the employees of the Savannah & Statesboro Ry., who live in Statesboro, with Mayor Johnston as spokesman. The surprise was no greater to Mr. Grimshaw than it was to Mr. Gabbett, he hardly knew what was to happen.

In a pretty little speech Mayor Johnston presented Mr. Grimshaw with a handsome gold headed cane as a gift from the employees of the road, as a token of the high respect in which he was held by the men who had worked under his supervision. Mr. Grimshaw made many warm friends during his stay in our city, and the fact that he leaves us is not only a source of deep regret to the management and employees of the road, but to the entire community.
